

PROTECTING THE WORLD'S

ENDANGERED SPECIES

THROUGH THE BEAUTY OF ART

NGO

BIODIVERSITY PROVIDES THE NATURAL BEAUTY THAT FEEDS THE HUMAN SOUL.

Climate change is destroying our Planet and the biodiversity essential to life. If we restore the climate but lose biodiversity, we've failed.

ENDANGERED is an Inspirational campaign focused on harnessing the power of fine art to help protect and support the world's most endangered species.

Taos-based fine artist Kimberly Webber is collaborating with entrepreneur, philanthropist and Conscious Leadership scholar Tom Eddington to bring attention and to generate funds to save our endangered brethren through the sale of Dedicated Editions of fine art prints.

Partnering with some of most high-profile global charities, the campaign features the work of Kimberly Webber and other global artists, who have painted many of the majestic endangered species including lions, rhinos, tigers and jaguars. The collection includes original paintings and the 18 exclusive archival museum prints, that will tour as an exhibition to partner galleries around the world. The Dedicated Editions are available as a box set, as well as individual prints.

The ENDANGERED campaign partner galleries and NGOs will sell the art via special events, online through the support of sponsors and promotional campaign partners. ENDANGERED raises essential funding for partner charities committed to protecting endangered species.

70% OF THE SALE PRICE OF THE DEDICATED EDITIONS WILL GO DIRECTLY TO THE PARTNER CHARITIES COMMITTED TO PROTECTING ENDANGERED SPECIES

ENDANGERED IS A CAMPAIGN TO SAVE LIVES.

We must honor, protect, and have reverence for nature's works of art and do all that we can to eliminate the threat of extinction and to ensure the thriving of all life.

For more than 20 years Webber has painted images of animals and archetypal figures and donated a percentage of her proceeds to a wide variety of charities protecting animals, forests and wild habitats.

With the Amazon burning and the Endangered Species Act at risk in the United States, Webber and Eddington have created an approach to protect biodiversity.

The campaign received momentum with the opening of Untitled Editions a fine art gallery, in Taos, New Mexico featuring Limited Edition prints. The ENDANGERED campaign, in partnership with prominent NGOs and art galleries around the world, will raise awareness and money for endangered species by utilizing entire editions dedicated to survival and regeneration. The ENDANGERED exhibition and tour begins in early 2020 at the LA Art Show, February 5th-9th at the Los Angeles Convention Center. Additional funds will be raised via a special edition line of greeting cards, calendars and other items, all of which will feature the fine art images.

Eddington, a business advisor and leadership coach who has handled some of the largest mergers in the world including Hewlett-Packard and Compaq, says "We must honor, protect, and have reverence for nature's art and do all that we can to eliminate the threat of extinction. Our global collective is working together for this cause of profound importance. The blend of Galleries, business, non profits and art can inspire humanity and result in a breakthrough with a clear message of hope and beauty to help turn the tide for all life."

SURVIVAL IS A MEDITATION.
IF WE FOCUS
TOGETHER, WE CHANGE.

Our mission is to awaken public awareness.
It is a meditation of survival and regeneration.
This begins within ourselves.

As artists we have produced images of these animals that become the currency for their survival.

By bringing awareness to this imminent threat to the animals and humanity, our group consciousness connects and expands.

We are committed to a planet that protects and supports all species while providing beautiful art that honors and provides for them.
